Delivering Innovative Highway Design Solutions that Promote Safety

Bergmann transportation engineers design safe, effective and aesthetically pleasing highway projects that respect the culture of our local communities. Our experts recognize the need to blend form with function, innovation with history and mobility with safety, all while ensuring our projects preserve the quality of life for local residents. Bergmann ensures that complex interchanges flow smoothly and signature highway corridors become a valued gateway to the communities they serve.

Safety First

Bergmann transportation engineers, planners and landscape architects always put safety and quality of life first, while recognizing the need for innovative highway design to best serve the traveling public. From diverging diamond interchanges, to traffic-calming road diets and multi-modal corridor designs, we strive to improve all aspects of infrastructure to ensure people and goods are moved safely and efficiently in our communities.

Highway Project Types

Bergmann's engineers design a wide range of highway projects, from downtown city streets to urban expressway interchanges:

- Complex highway interchanges
- Context sensitive streetscapes
- Planning & environmental analysis
- Highway safety
- Multi-modal solutions
- Roundabouts & signalized intersections
- Signature corridors & community gateways
- Traffic engineering/ITS
- Urban & rural roadway design
